INVITATION TO ATTEND THE INTERNATIONAL GREEN BUILDING CONFERENCE AT MARINA BAY SANDS, SINGAPORE, 11 – 13 SEPTEMBER 2013.

THEME: BUILD GREEN, LIVE GREEN

Against the backdrop of Asia’s robust economic growth over the past decade, it is projected that 2.2 billion people will live in Asian cities by 2020. Massive building and infrastructural developments are being planned to cope with these demands. To sustain the growth, the environmental impacts of such developments need to be properly addressed considering resource constraints and climate change faced by the countries.

In Singapore, the Inter-Ministerial Committee on Sustainable Development (IMCSD) has set a target for Singapore for 80% of all buildings (new & existing) to be Green Mark (GM) certified by 2030. To strengthen our position as the global heart for Asia’s Green Building development, Singapore will be organising her 5th Singapore Green Building Week this year from 9 - 13 Sept 2013, with the International Green Building Conference 2013, (IGBC 2013) as the anchor event. As the region’s premier event, IGBC 2013, is expected to attract more than 1,000 participants from over 30 countries - from thought leaders, academics, real estate developers, urban planners, architects, engineers, builders and other industry professionals - committed to understanding and putting into action real-world, tangible green solutions. Also present at the conference will be policy-makers and key government officials from several growth markets, who will give their unique public sector perspective on sustainable building solutions, policies and plans.

Supported by over forty organisations; the conference features the following:

- Singapore’s 3rd Green Building Masterplan;
- High-level Plenary Sessions by industry and thought leaders;
- Keynote Addresses by leading industry experts and academics;
  - Global Building Trends & Business Case;
