Synopsis

The digital revolution has spurred global industries to move at a pace never experienced before. Many PMETs are now constantly faced with the challenges of keeping themselves relevant and the need to deepen and widen their repertoire of skills to deal with more complex and broad issues.

In the first of the 2019 series of SPM Professional Technical Talk, we are pleased to have Mayor of North West District, Dr Teo Ho Pin and his Skillsfuture Team from North West Community Development Council (CDC) to share how Skills Future can help our project managers further hone your mastery in project management. In addition, SME Centre@North West will also be introducing various government schemes and initiatives relevant to the field of Project Management. Lastly, SPM’s Outstanding Project Managers for 2018, Mr Chang Kin Boon and Mr Lee Yun Sang, will also be sharing their experiences on how they have overcome the various challenges they had encountered in their work to excel as among the best in the field of project management.
